Community Encampment Food Service Options

Encampment Directors have multiple options to provide food service to their encampment participants. GSWCF has made several changes to our policies and options in an effort to better serve you and our members. “Council Cooks” will no longer be administered/paid/covered by insurance via the Council. We will not use the term Council Cooks going forward to better clarify that this role will not exist as it has been understood in the recent past.

1. Hiring a Caterer to Cook in the Camp Commercial Kitchen

Communities can contract with caterers directly to provide meals or to prepare food in the commercial kitchens at camp. Outside contractors or “camp caterers” who will be paid for services need to provide and show proof of their own liability insurance coverage and sign an agreement directly with the community itself. Prices may be negotiated independently. Below are the names of several independent contractors who would like to be considered as “camp caterers” and each community is welcome to identify their own caterer. It is the responsibility of the encampment director to verify that each caterer has the following qualifications:

1. A valid State of Florida Food Safety Manager certification
2. Carry general liability coverage of $1,000,000 each occurrence/$2,000,000 aggregate
3. For caterers or kitchen staff who will be staying overnight or on property more than 10 total hours, a current valid State of Florida Level 2 Background Screen on file with GSWCF.

2. Qualified Volunteers Providing Food Service

Volunteers with experience in a commercial kitchen who meet the following requirements may utilize commercial kitchens and cook for an Encampment:

1. Hold a valid State of Florida Food Safety Manager (not handler) certification

   Multiple options and services exist to secure a Food Service Manager Certification, including but not limited to:

   You may also search “Florida Food Safety Manager” to find additional options.

2. Complete a kitchen orientation with the designated Camp Ranger at least 7 days prior to the scheduled event. (Contact the Camp Ranger directly via phone or email to schedule an orientation session).

   Cynthia “Cynde” Huntley  cyndehuntley@yahoo.com  (727) 734-5520  is a volunteer who is available to work with your community to provide food service in return for a donation to her troop.

3. Ordering Prepared Food from a Local Restaurant

   For communities who wish to have a restaurant or caterer deliver food, GSWCF has enclosed a list of local restaurants near camps primarily used for encampments to help identify providers. Vendors marked with an asterisk have responded to GSWCF that they are interested in providing this service at a local camp. Some caterers may also agree to prepare meals in the camp’s commercial kitchen. Contracted caterers shall not be working directly with girls, and must always be in line of sight supervision of approved Girl Scout volunteers while on the camp property. The list of these vendors follows this page of information.

4. Non-commercial kitchens & Cooking at the Unit Site

   Qualified volunteers (those with the appropriate outdoor training if applicable) can reserve and use all non-commercial kitchens or cook at the unit site/fire circle according to current GSWCF policies.
